

From the Principal: Alistair Williams

The recent Leaders Induction ceremony saw the newest leaders welcomed into the school. This was an excellent ceremony and one in which we heard from our three newest heads of KMSC. They spoke of their vision for their team and the school and talked about the keys to leadership.

The Leader of Health and PE, Luke Driver, spoke of the “bravery” these students had to take up the opportunity to lead. He also talked about how this group are the community members we are seeking to build, ones who will put others first.

Often within schooling it is easy to focus on the curriculum, what students need to be taught, when in reality there are many other key skills that come from attending school; resilience, organisation, critical thinking and indeed leadership.

Opportunities like the KMSC allow students to further develop these skills, under the close guidance and support of teachers.

There are other opportunities for students to develop their skills, one in which every student can participate. During the upcoming Sports Days, we will no doubt witness some supreme sporting accomplishments with many students running the hundred metres in under 12 seconds and the Open Boys high jump reaching even higher heights!

Learning for our future

These can often be put down to natural talent, but even at our level, the students have done the extra work, organised their lives and put themselves through a disciplined program to ensure that they are able to participate at the highest level.

Whilst it is obvious that these students have developed certain skills, many students will have the chance to participate in the day and improve themselves by contributing in other ways. In recent weeks some of our senior students have put their coaching skills to the test, coaching a class of primary students in an athletic event. Having seen one of these lessons recently, I was thoroughly impressed by the way in which these young people worked together.

In fact, all students who attend the school's Sports Days have an opportunity to improve themselves, even if it is just by being a positive role model through supporting their House and friends.

I look forward to seeing many parents at the Sports Days and know students will put on an excellent display, showing us school is much more than just the curriculum.

Southwood Medal – Year 12 Dux

We were thrilled Mr Steve Southwood and wife Helyn joined our Assembly celebrations on Friday.

The Southwood family has a long history with Kadina Memorial dating back to the establishment of Kadina Memorial 'High' School.

We are keen to foster our heritage as it provides a sense of community pride and belonging.

Mr Southwood presented Chloe Martin with the school's highest academic achievement, the 2018 Southwood Medal, as well as presenting the new Southwood House leaders with their certificates and badges.

2018 Highest Achiever in the State

Congratulations to 2018 Kadina Memorial High Achiever Nathan Jones who achieved the highest ATAR in the state for an aboriginal student. Nathan will receive his award at a National Reconciliation Week ceremony at Government House in May.

Governing Council Vacancies

Kadina Memorial School's Governing Council will have some vacancies this year. This is a diverse group that makes policy decisions, assists with future school directions and improvements and guides Executive Leadership. Governing Council is the 'eyes, ears and voice' of our school community, meeting twice per term. The Annual General Meeting will be on Wednesday 27 March, in the Hospitality Centre, 7pm. Below is a nomination slip which needs to be completed and returned to the Principal's PA Paula McKay by Monday 18 March, 3.30pm if interested.

It's well-known that a diverse group reflecting all sub-schools leads to innovation, inclusiveness and good governance.

Calendar Dates:

- Early Closure Day, next week, Tuesday 5 March, 2:10pm dismissal, buses depart 2:20pm
- R-6 Sports Day, Thursday 7 March

R-6 Corner

Next week is Sports Day. As the Junior Primary and Years 3-6 sports days can look, sound and feel quite different we are sometimes asked 'why?'

The Primary Sports Day has a tabloid approach in the morning with points for skill level and competitive events in the afternoon. The Junior Primary also has a tabloid approach in the morning with points for participation.

Experts in both youth sports and child development agree: children are not ready for competition until they are at least 8 years old (around year 3). Before that, they just can't handle the stresses of winning, losing, and being measured and scored on their performance. In the early years physical education is about being active, having fun, learning new skills and laying the groundwork for good sportsmanship.

In Reception to Year Two students' weekly PE lessons and when playing games in class, these key messages are practised and reinforced. Children involved in competition too young can find this an unpleasant experience which impacts on their future participation.

That doesn't mean all children are ready for competitive sports once they turn eight. For many, it's not until about 10 years of age that they grasp some of the nuances inherent in competition, for example, it's hard to learn that sometimes you lose even when you try your best.

Developmentally, children playing competitively need to have sufficient self-discipline and a good attention span. They need to be mature enough to listen to and respect the coach/teacher and be able to work effectively with a large group. If a child is super-passionate about soccer but doesn't have the patience to practise drills over and over, they may not be ready for a competitive team.

By organising the R-6 Sports Day in this way we are providing the best learning experiences for our early years students and building a strong foundation for future active participation.

Enjoy the day, don't forget to wear a hat, apply sunscreen and keep well hydrated – we are all role models.

Unit News

In the Unit we celebrate lots of achievements that for some are small but for our students can be huge achievements, especially when it has taken lots of practise to accomplish a task, or they have had to deal with high sensory needs.

Becoming independent at following classroom routines, schedules and daily living skills continues to be embedded into our Unit programs and is a focus of our everyday learning. A number of students are very prompt dependent and reliant on an adult to physically gesture or verbally tell them what needs to be done next. Our task as educators is to give lots of opportunities for the students to know they can complete a task independently and have the resilience to keep trying.

Weekly cooking lessons in the Unit provide both the Junior and Senior class students with some of the skills required to become independent. Being able to hold a knife and spread butter onto a piece of bread can be a struggle for some when they don't like touching utensils or have limited gross motor skills. Lots of time and practice goes into achieving this task, which for most people is done without thinking about it.

It's great to see the smile on their faces when the students have been able to achieve and make something on their own, with limited support, and it tastes good as well.

Is your child using a mobile phone?

If the answer is "YES" or "Constantly"...read on! Since Christmas there are some excited young people who now have their own mobile. Like riding a bike or driving a car, it's important to understand the rules of the road and the mechanics of the transport you are using.

Please discuss with your child what information they give out - this includes personal phone number and other personal information that could lead to people pranking or bullying due to oversharing. Accept friendship requests only from people you KNOW and TRUST. Talk with your child about how people like to send on information, and that prior to posting something ask, would you like it passed on to others?

Speak with your child about protecting their "brand", treat the phone like a wallet and keep it secure at all times. Talk about the power of words and how they can hurt to the core. Have a conversation about your expectations of them when they are speaking with their friends and others their age, link it to your family values. Being a teen is one of the most stressful times, we all know. We adults have all been there, the obvious difference being most of us did not have the power (both positive and negative) of a mobile phone with apps and internet into the cyber world.

Students of today worship social media, connecting themselves to their tribe 24/7. What is important is that kids need to know that what they WRITE or POST stays on someone's screen and then in their mind, ultimately affecting their mental health.

As adults and family members it is our job to have the tough, but kind conversations around how to engage with media in a way that reduces the risk of embarrassment and exclusion.

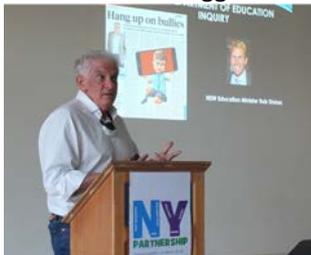

Each year our school has a visit from the South Australian Police outlining to students ways to keep themselves safe according to the law. Stay tuned for the date!

Real Wired Child with Michael Carr-Gregg

More than 100 parents and grandparents attended the Real Wired Child workshop by well-known psychologist Michael Carr-Gregg on Tuesday night.

Research shows too much digital time affects mental and physical health, resulting in less sleep and addictive behaviour. Families are urged to stay in tune with technology and know what children are accessing.

To oversee your child's online activities download the app www.familyzone.com.au. Thankyou to the NY Partnership for hosting this event. More parent workshops are planned this year, which will be promoted through the newsletter.

An Anthology of Un-kept Secrets

Middle School Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students at Kadina Memorial School were involved in a literacy opportunity looking at life from a young person's perspective. Students were involved in creative workshops which were conducted by Sally Hardy, an award winning Australian playwright. By participating in the workshops, students uncovered the often secret feelings of people their own age. They discovered that no matter how different we may appear to be, everyone has similar feelings of love, fear and hope.

Sally will now use these anonymous feelings to write a children's book, 'An Anthology of Un-kept Secrets', which will be launched at the DreamBIG Festival. Plans are already being made for Kadina Memorial School students to attend Sally's book launch at the end of May.

Maddy Orr

'I really enjoyed the workshop because you were able to express your feelings and no one knew whose feeling it was. It was interesting to hear kids from other schools felt the same as me.'

Charlie Jones

'I thought the workshop was fun and a great way to express yourself. Acting out our feelings in groups was cool and a different way to show different feelings.'

Luke Poole

'I thought the workshops were lots of fun. It was great to be around others and find out that I'm not the only one with some sad feelings.'

Meeya Dobie

'The favourite part of the day was making plays in small groups. These plays were expressing different feelings that we had discovered in the morning workshop.'

Janine McKay

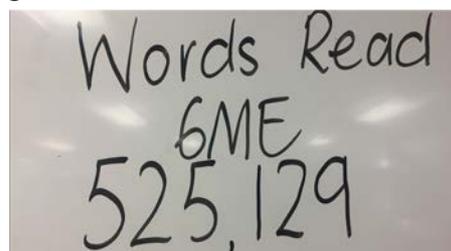

Aboriginal Education teacher

Literacy Pro Reading Words Challenge

How many words can Kadina Memorial School primary students read before the end of Term 1? It's easy to participate by borrowing a Lexile book and reading it. Complete the quiz, with the word count automatically added to the school's word tally. Students in 6ME have made a great start!

Library News: Hundreds of favourite book titles were shared during Library Lovers Week recently creating a heartfelt display!

Book Fair: Students will have an opportunity to browse and purchase titles at a Book Fair in Week 9. There is no obligation to buy books at this event. This means there will be no Scholastic Book Club this term. .

We have been extremely impressed with how well our youngest cohort have settled into school life.

They've been busy learning routines, deciphering words, numbers, instructions, and navigating social time.

Sports Day Facts – did you know?

Where did our sporting House names originate? The Kadina Primary and Kadina Memorial High Schools' Amalgamation Committee felt strongly the sporting tradition of both sites should be retained. Each had four sporting houses, KPS had Heath, Crosby, Ferguson and Rose, while KMHS had Southwood, Chandler, Holder and Roach. The decision was made to keep two houses from each school, with the heritage representing the geographical locations of our students.

1. Heath was named after Les (Larry) Heath, a well-known Barunga-Willamulka farmer, who ran a successful rural supplies and hardware business in Kadina. He was a Member of State Parliament in 1957 at the time of his death and remembered as a generous community person.
2. Rose was named after Mrs Mavis Rose (nee Martin), a dedicated and committed supporter of former Kadina Primary School's various committees and events spanning decades.
3. Southwood is in honour of Dr Albert Ray Southwood who moved to the district with his family in 1895. He enlisted in the Australian Army Medical Corps, studied medicine at the highest levels, and established a private practice in Adelaide. In World War II he became Deputy Director of Medical Services, 4th Military District with the rank of Colonel. In 1924 he donated the Southwood medal to Kadina Memorial High School celebrating country education.
4. Chandler is named after Mr Alfred Chandler, a local carpenter and hardware store owner in Wallaroo. He was a respected family and community person who also served as Mayor of Wallaroo in the mid 1920's.

Year 10 T20 Knock Out Cricket

On Friday 15 February, the Year 10 boys travelled to Port Pirie to compete against Whyalla High School in Round 1 of the T20 Knockout Cricket competition.

Whyalla won the toss and chose to bat first at Globe oval.

A fantastic bowling and fielding display saw Whyalla bowled out for 89 in the 15th over. Dylan Branford took 5/18 and Toby Glasson 4/10 to lead the charge in a dominant display.

In reply Will Neumann made the most of some early dropped catches to score 48 with the bat, alongside Toby Glasson with 37. This meant the two openers chased down the runs without the loss of a wicket. The team will now play Round 2 in Adelaide against some tough specialised cricket schools. Keep your eyes on upcoming newsletters to see how they go.
